2018 Field trip

Topaz Museum

On September 11, 1942, Japanese Americans were transported from the San Francisco area to Delta, Utah. The internment camp, ringed with barbed wire and open for three years, held over 8,000 prisoners. Today the museum preserves the history of the internment experience and interprets its impact on the internees and their families.

April 21
7 AM - 10 PM

Transportation, breakfast, and lunch will be provided. We will stop for dinner at a restaurant.

Fillmore Territorial Statehouse

The Fillmore Statehouse is Utah's oldest existing governmental building. Ordered to be constructed by Brigham Young as the state's capitol, the site now houses a museum, auditorium, two restored pioneer cabins, and an 1867 stone schoolhouse.
