In summer 2019, Tammy Proctor and Jonathan Brunstedt took a group of 14 fantastic students abroad for a “Europe at War” program, where they studied the history of World War I and World War II. From their initial visits to museums in London to their 10-day residency at Jesus College in Oxford, Proctor and Brunstedt built the academic basis for the program with class sessions, outings to historic sites, movies, and discussions. For fun, the group enjoyed punting in Oxford as well as a rousing game of cricket in the University Park. Other adventures included walks around Oxford and visits to local pubs for meals.

The last week was an exciting blur of travel that included Dover Castle, a ferry ride across the Channel, museum visits to In Flanders Fields Museum and La Coupole, and lots of good food. The highlight of the travel part of the trip was a day-long visit to the beaches of Normandy, where they walked in the footsteps of Allied and German soldiers and civilians from 1944. To cap it all off, they finished the trip in Paris.
